Let's Talk Extension Nutrition

With Evelyn L. Blanchard, Nutrition Specialist

TO EXTENSION NUTRITION SPECIALISTS:

Subject: Workshops

There will not be a nutrition workshop in connection with the extension summer schools this year. For those interested in a workshop there are two that you may wish to consider. One is in Virginia and the other in California.

A workshop in human nutrition is planned at Virginia Polytechnic Institute for June 28 through July 17 which is designed to further the training of professional people working in the fields of nutrition, health, and home economics. Current research findings and their implications for the nutritional well-being of our population will be considered. Outstanding authorities in the various fields of research will present these topics, and opportunity for discussion with the speakers will be provided. Members will work in groups on special problems to help with the jobs they are doing. Graduate credit of 4 hours will be given, but members may attend without credit. Apply to Dr. Mildred Tate, Head, Home Economics Department, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va. A folder telling about the workshop has already been sent to you.

A work conference featuring recent and applicable research in nutrition presented by leaders in the field will be held at the University of California in Berkeley, July 12 to 23, 1954, immediately following the American Home Economics Association Convention in San Francisco. Dr. Agnes Fay Morgan will direct the conference. Attendance will be permitted either without academic credit or with academic credit. For further information write to University Extension, University of California, Berkeley.

Sincerely yours,

Evelyn L. Blanchard
